

Symposium on Opioid Addiction

Featuring Dr. João Goulão,
Director General of Portugal's Intervention
Service in Addictive Behaviors and Dependencies
(SICAD)

Join Rutgers School of Social Work for a symposium on opioid addiction featuring keynote speaker, Dr. João Goulão, director general of SICAD, and distinguished panelists including nationally recognized psychologist, Stanton Peele, J.D., Ph.D., Beth Connelly, former commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Human Services and current staff at Pew Charitable Trusts, and SSW professor and director for the Center for Gambling Studies Lia Nower, J.D., Ph.D.

Dr. Goulão is regarded as one of the most prominent international figures dealing with drug decriminalization. He served as architect of Portugal's current drug policy, which has transformed Portugal's heroin and drug-related HIV/AIDS epidemic to achieving one of the lowest overdose death rates in the European Union.

Seating is limited.

Friday, November 2, 2018

9 a.m. to 11 a.m.

Alexander Library
Pane Room

169 College Avenue
New Brunswick, NJ 08901

Questions?
Email kcrimmins@ssw.rutgers.edu

RSVP today at sswopioidsymposium.eventbrite.com.

Livestream available at livestream.com/RutgersSSW.