I. Catalog Course Description

Professional skills necessary for baccalaureate-level generalist practitioners. This course emphasizes development of a professional social work identity and the skills needed to work within an organizational context.

II. Course Overview

To equip and prepare students for social work practice with diverse and vulnerable populations within a variety of social work settings, this course will focus on issues and skills essential in the development of a professional identity including: the professional use of self; the ability to apply social work values and ethics in practice; the differential use of communication skills in practice; the use of supervision appropriate to generalist practice; the professional role within an organizational setting; awareness of organizational dynamics and change; and understanding the need for continued professional growth.

III. Place of Course in Program

This course is restricted to social work majors in the spring semester of their junior year and is a requirement of the major.

IV. Course Objective

The objectives of the course are to provide students with:

1. Define the role of the helping professional and generalist practitioner.
2. Identify social work values and ethics in a practice situations.
3. Apply social work skills for generalist practice from an antiracist perspective.
4. Recognize the significance of the field work experience.
5. Describe the multiple goals and potential uses of supervision.
6. Define the dynamic nature of social welfare organizations.
7. Recognize the intersection between the social work profession ,systemic oppression and potential ways to promote social change.
8. Article a professional profile that illustrates a trajectory that encompasses a social justice lens.

V. The Council on Social Work Education Policy and Accreditation Standards:

The BASW and MSW programs at Rutgers are accredited by the Council on Social Work Education (CSWE). CSWE uses the Education Policy and Accreditation Standards (EPAS) to accredit and reaffirm baccalaureate and master-level social programs in the United States. These accreditation standards can be reviewed at cswe.org.

The Rutgers School of Social Work has integrated the CSWE competencies within its curriculum. This course will assist students in developing the following specific two competencies:

Competency 1: Demonstrate Ethical and Professional Behavior

Social workers understand the value base of the profession and its ethical standards, as well as relevant laws and regulations that may impact practice at the micro, mezzo, and macro levels. Social workers understand frameworks of ethical decision-making and how to apply principles of critical thinking to those frameworks in practice, research, and policy arenas. Social workers recognize personal values and the distinction between personal and professional values. They also understand how their personal experiences and affective reactions influence their professional judgment and behavior. Social workers understand the profession's history, its mission, and the roles and responsibilities of the profession. Social Workers also understand the role of other professions when engaged in inter-professional teams. Social workers recognize the importance of life-long learning and are committed to continually updating their skills to ensure they are relevant and effective. Social workers also understand emerging forms of technology and the ethical use of technology in social work practice.

(25 points) due week 13

XII. Course Evaluation

There will be two evaluations. At mid-term and at the end of the semester, feedback from students will be requested through the University’s evaluation system, which is anonymous.

XIII. Policy on Academic Integrity

“Academic freedom is a fundamental right in any institution of higher learning. Honesty and integrity are necessary preconditions to this freedom. Academic integrity requires that all academic work be wholly the product of an identified individual or individuals. Joint efforts are legitimate only when the assistance of others is explicitly acknowledged. Ethical conduct is the obligation of every member of the university community and breaches of academic integrity constitute serious offenses” (Academic Integrity Policy, p.1).

The principles of academic integrity entail simple standards of honesty and truth. Each member of the university has a responsibility to uphold the standards of the community and to take action when others violate them.

Faculty members have an obligation to educate students to the standards of academic integrity and to report violations of these standards to the appropriate deans. Students are responsible for knowing what the standards are and for adhering to them. Students also should bring any violations of which they are aware to the attention of their instructors. Any involvement with cheating, the fabrication or invention of information used in an academic exercise, plagiarism, facilitating academic dishonesty, or denying others access to information or material may result in disciplinary action being taken at either the college or university level. Breaches of academic integrity can result in serious consequences ranging from reprimand to expulsion (see Undergraduate Catalog for further information).

XIV. Disability Accommodation

Any student who believes that s/he may need an accommodation in this class due to a disability should contact the University Office of Disability Services at 732-932-2848 for a letter of accommodation. Students must have a letter of accommodation from the Coordinator in order to receive accommodations. (Undergraduate New Brunswick students should contact the Coordinator for Students with Disabilities for their College.) Any student who has already received a letter of accommodation should contact the instructor privately to discuss implementation of his/her accommodations immediately. Failure to discuss implementation of accommodations with the instructor promptly may result in denial of your accommodations.
